During his term on the Board, Perot Systems became a multi-billion dollar global company, with over 24,000 employees in North America, Europe and Asia.

Mr. Ross Perot, Jr. is the son of Mr. Ross Perot – an American entrepreneur, politician and billionaire who made his fortune on Electronic Data Systems and Perot Systems. Perot was a presidential candidate in 1992 and 1996. In the 1992 election he enjoyed high support in opinion polls, which enabled him to take part in TV debates as the first third-party candidate – his running mate was James Stockdale, a retired United States Navy vice admiral. Ross Perot obtained 19% of votes despite withdrawing from the campaign for a few months. It was the best result obtained by a third-party candidate since 1912.
